

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A software distributing server in which software is downloaded in a smooth and stress-free manner. The software distributing server segments the software into a plurality of recombina-
5 ble segment data, and registers them in a predetermined site. A link monitor supervises a link state between a user terminal and the site, and a data transmit-receive unit transmits unsent data to the user terminal every time a link is detected.